The Galata Tower

The Galata Tower, officially the Galata Tower Museum, is an old Genoese tower in the Galata part of the Beyoğlu district of Istanbul. Built as a watchtower at the highest point of the (lost) Walls of Galata, the tower is now an exhibition space and museum, and a symbol of Beyoğlu and Istanbul.

The Basilica Cistern

The Basilica Cistern or Cisterna Basilica, is the largest of several hundred ancient cisterns that are located on the historical peninsula of Istanbul. It was built in the 6th century during the reign of Byzantine emperor Justinian I. Today it only has a small amount of water, and offers public access inside.

Hagia Sophia

Hagia Sophia is a place of worship and a major cultural and historical site in Istanbul. The last of three church buildings to be successively erected on the site by the Eastern Roman Empire, it was completed in 537 AD. The site was an Eastern Orthodox church from 360 to 1204, when it was converted to a Catholic church following the Fourth Crusade. In 2020, the site once again became a mosque.

LOCAL TOASTMASTERS RECOMMEND

ARTS, CULTURE & DESIGN

Istanbul Modern

Türkiye's first museum of modern and contemporary art, Istanbul Modern mediates the sharing and transfer of our country's artistic heritage on a global scale and brings together artistic productions from various geographies in Istanbul.

Pera Museum

The Pera Museum is located in the historic building of the former Bristol Hotel, which was designed by architect Achille Manoussos and built in 1893. The Pera Museum hosts regular, international exhibitions on loan, in addition to holding permanent collections of Orientalist Paintings, Anatolian Weights and Measures, and Kütahya Tiles and Ceramics.

Dolmabahçe Palace

Dolmabahçe Palace, located in the Beşiktaş district of Istanbul, served as the main administrative centre of the Ottoman Empire from 1856 to 1887 and from 1909 to 1922. The founding president of Türkiye, Mustafa Kemal Atatürk, spent the last days of his life in the palace.

Balat

Located on the southern shore of Golden Horn, Balat is one of the oldest and most spectacular districts of Istanbul. Famous for its historical heritage, colorful streets, various churches, and synagogue.

Salt Galata

The Salt Galata building was designed by French-Levantine architect Alexandre Vallauri to house the headquarters of the Imperial Ottoman Bank (1892-1999). This unique space was opened in 2011 and houses not only the Ottoman Bank Museum Collection, but an Auditorium, library and research areas.

FOOD & DRINK

Istanbul's cuisine is an amalgamation of southeast European staples and Middle Eastern tastes. The result? A delightful assortment of dishes and drinks that are different from anything else you'll find in the world.

Meze: A huge part of Turkish cuisine is the starters and appetisers – a variety of small dishes served together to, essentially, create a main meal. These small dishes of deliciousness are referred to as meze (or mezze).

Künefe: This cheese pastry dish is a traditional recipe found in many Arab cuisines – often under the name 'kanafeh'. Despite the savoury cheese element, künefe is a dessert. The cheese is sandwiched between two sheets of stringy pastry known as tel kadayif.

Typical drinks in Istanbul:

Raki: Wherever there is meze, there is raki. Known as Turkey's national alcoholic drink of choice, raki is an aniseed-flavoured beverage that goes hand-in-hand with meze.

Ayran: Perhaps Turkey's most treasured non-alcoholic drink, ayran is a summer must-have. Containing no sugar, this refreshing beverage is a blend of water, cold yogurt and salt.

Salep: While ayran is for summer, salep is perfect for drinking in the winter months. Originally made from the tubers of orchids, salep is also created with artificial flavouring.

OTHER TIPS

The Grand Bazaar is one of the largest and oldest covered markets in the world, with 61 covered streets and over 4,000 shops. In 2014, it was listed No.1 among the world's most-visited tourist attractions with 91,250,000 annual visitors.

Own the Stage LIVE Coaching

19:00, Free

How serious are you about becoming a better speaker?

Are you confident enough to hear the truth?

You can't become great on your own. To go from GOOD TO GREAT, we need feedback from a higher level. In 2001, Darren LaCroix outspoke 25,000 contestants from 14 countries to become the World Champion of Public Speaking. Not bad for a guy who bombed miserable in comedy club 9 years earlier.

- Do you have the courage to be coached? (Darren will be asking for volunteers to deliver a story and get world-class feedback. FYI, Darren gets paid $600 an hour for coaching)
- Darren admits there is NO WAY he could have won without a Speaker Coach. He actually had 2. One coach, Mark Brown, the 1995 World Champion, gave him the exact opposite advice as everyone else. Champions think differently.

From decades of coaching speakers and executives around the world, you'll walk away with:

- ✓ Essential "Must Haves" for your speech.
- ✓ Critical Mistakes that most presenter make.
- ✓ A World-class coaching checklist to evaluate with.

Ever witnessed live, world-class coaching? Be ready. You might just be on stage getting coached. After this session, you will never look at speaking the same way again, Darrenteed!

Beneath the Surface: Delving Into the Layers of Effective Communication

Anastasia Salichou - Transformation Coach Healer

How often have we found ourselves in situations where tension escalated unexpectedly, leaving us bewildered about its origin? Or perhaps we've struggled to prevent conflicts sparked by seemingly trivial reasons? Yet, consider the remarkable experience of being in the company of individuals who intuitively grasp our needs and desires, even when we are unable to articulate them ourselves. It's a profound connection that illustrates the power of understanding beyond words. Being able to listen for the actual meaning behind the words people say is a skill of powerful leaders who are able to move and inspire others and create deep collaboration and trust.

Leadership Track

Oozing Confidence: Embracing the Art of Role Taking

Margherita Brodbeck Roth - District 109 Director & Hilarie Burke - Multifaceted Artist

While method acting can enhance leadership skills, not all method actors will automatically become great leaders. However, the skills and mindset cultivated through method acting can complement and strengthen leadership capabilities.

Method acting involves actors immersing themselves deeply into the emotional and psychological aspects of their characters. This capability can potentially make someone a better leader. By exploring some techniques, you will start to understand the perspectives of others better by tapping into their emotions and experiences, you will improve your communication skills through practising rehearsals and immersing yourself in different characters, and tap into your creativity on how to engage with challenging situations.
